

INSURGENT ARMY IS SIDETRACKED

The Garrison at Ciudad Diaz, Over the Border from Eagle Pass, Texas, Wait in Vain for Enemy's Attack.

LEADERS SAY DIAZ MUST GO

Brother of Francisco I. Madero Expresses Belief That Rumored Peace Mission of Jose Limantour Will Fail of Purpose—Railway Official Reports Rapid Spread of Revolution in Region Surrounding Chihuahua—Aeroplane Stampedes Mules.

San Antonio, Tex., March 17.—Progress of events connected with the divisional army of 15,000 at Fort Sam Houston and the activities of the insurgents over the Mexican border were marked by two developments. One was that the attack upon Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, just over the border from Eagle Pass, which was scheduled to occur and which was to mark the opening of a new insurrecto campaign in the state of Coahuila, did not take place. The second was the reaffirmation from a staff officer of the camp here of the report printed some days ago, that the Fourth and Eleventh cavalry regiments were soon to move in the direction of the border.

It may be stated with positiveness that as soon as the large number of recruits for the two cavalry regiments, which have arrived within the last two days in numbers sufficient to bring these two organizations up to war strength, has been licked into passable shape, the two regiments will move south to Fort Clark, near Spotted Junction, 39 miles away from the Mexican border. The Southern Pacific railroad now has cars enough in its yards reserved on orders of the army headquarters here to move all the horses and impedimenta on five hours' notice.

Garrison Kept Busy. A long distance telephone message from an American in Ciudad Porfirio Diaz conveyed the news that, though March 16 had been the day set by the insurgents for an uprising in that city, no untoward signs had appeared and the small guard of federal troops was exercising unusual diligence to prevent a surprise.

Alfonso Madero, brother of the insurrecto leader and the head of the local junta in San Antonio, said that the news that Jose Limantour was leaving New York bound for Mexico was for the purpose of making overtures to the insurgents would not, he thought, have any effect upon the movements of the rebels. Senor Madero seemed to take a pessimistic view of the influence that Limantour could bring to bear toward effecting a compromise. The insurgents, he said, were fighting for one thing only—the removal of Diaz from power and the stamping out of the Diaz regime. They would be satisfied with nothing short of that.

Revolt Is Spreading. That the revolutionary movement is spreading to new territory was confirmed by an officer of the Southern Pacific, who had just returned from Terreon. He said that throughout all of southern Chihuahua and in the state of Coahuila, whenever a federal force approached within striking distance of the insurgents, fully one-third of Diaz's soldiers deserted their companies and took their guns over to the rebels. The federal government in Coahuila was weakening, he added, and when the signal for a general uprising came there would be an almost unanimous response.

A pack of 100 army mules was stampeded when Lieutenant Poulton and Parmelee sailed over the border in their flight from Fort Sam Houston to Leon Springs with dispatches for Major Squire. The round trip of 42 miles was made in less than an hour and three-quarters.

MORE TROUBLE FOR DIAZ

Revolt Breaks Out in State Where Least Expected. Mexico City, March 17.—Another conspiracy against the government has been unearthed. This time it is in the state of Chiapas, where a colonel in the Guatemalan army was caught with incriminating documents in his possession. He was immediately arrested and the house in which he was found was searched. Many rifles and 2,000 mauser cartridges were found hidden about the premises. The colonel, who is named Domingo De Lean, has been placed in jail at Tapachula and is held incommunicado by the Mexican authorities.

A report has reached here of a battle between federals and rebels at El Rodeo, in the state of Sonora. Confirmation has been received of the fact that out of 50 federals engaged but two escaped. Twenty-seven were killed and 21 were wounded. Colonel Anguino, who commanded the federals, is among the dead. The federals fell into an ambush in a narrow canon and were literally cut to pieces. It is asserted that the rebels numbered 200 men and that they suffered no loss in the fighting.

Vice President Corral has left Tehuacan. He has been ill there since the inauguration last December, and he is not yet fully recovered. It is believed that he has been summoned to confer with the other high government officials concerning the situation.

Order Creates Comment. Galveston, March 17.—The attachment of the explosive heads to the points of the eight torpedoes carried on board the scout cruiser Salem here, followed by a tightening of the regulations for shore leave, made much comment. Neither Captain Evans nor any of his officers will admit having received specific orders.

Report Is Confirmed. Santa Cruz, Mexico, March 17.—The report that 50 rebels were killed and 25 captured in an encounter with federals near Nativitas, state of Tlaxcala, two days ago, is confirmed by arrivals here from that section. It is stated that the federals lost 15 killed and 50 wounded.

Princeton Sails For Mexico. Washington, March 17.—Though it has been understood that no more American warships were to visit Mexican ports, the United States protected cruiser Princeton is en route from Corinto, Nicaragua, to Salina Cruz, Mexico.

No Cabinet Changes Expected. Augusta, Ga., March 17.—Though it was stated that no changes would be made in the cabinet as the result of the Mexican situation and the army "maneuvers" was anticipated by President Taft.

Methodist Divine Near Death. Kenton, O., March 17.—Rev. J. W. Hill of Aug. 57, is thought to be dying as the result of a fall at Lima a few days ago. Dr. John Wesley Hill, his son, of New York is at the bedside of his father.

Czar's Eldest Daughter Is Expected to Marry Cousin

RUSSIAN gossip has it that the Grand Duchess Olga, the eldest daughter of the czar of Russia, is expected to marry her father's cousin, the Grand Duke Dimitri Paulovitch. The grand duchess is a beautiful girl not yet quite sixteen years old. Her father believes in early marriages, and he has given strong hints of what he wishes, but so far the Grand Duke Dimitri has not shown any tremendous admiration for his pretty kinswoman. He is extremely wealthy, having inherited vast sums from the Grand Duke Sergius, who was assassinated in 1905, leaving no children. He is a gay youth, partial to the ballet and shows no signs of wanting to settle down right away, as he is only twenty years old. His mother is dead, and as his father later contracted a morganatic marriage and was banished from Russia the young man was brought up by his aunt. She has advised the czar not to insist on an early marriage or early engagement, as she says that her nephew will make a better husband if allowed to "have his fling" before marriage. But the czar fears there may be another morganatic union in the family, and St. Petersburg expects that the announcement of the engagement of the young couple will not be long delayed. The czar says he wants all his daughters—he has four—to wed men of his choosing and that unless they marry early they are likely to have minds of their own, which may thwart him.

Zogalowski and Two Companions Are Wanted at Mictlowitz For Murder of Wealthy Jew. His Wife and Two Employees—Trio Escaped With Rich Booty—German Detective Takes Up Trail and Seizes Prisoner on Vessel in New York Harbor.

New York, March 17.—When a man charged with a quadruple murder was taken from the German steamer Zettin and lodged in the city prison, a new achievement was marked up to the credit of the wireless telegraph.

When the steamer St. Louis from Southampton nosed into the bay to quarantine Otto Dussdorf, a Berlin detective, was standing by the rail, and as soon as a revenue cutter could get alongside he hurried down the ladder. The cutter then headed to where the Zettin was lying, and Dussdorf and two New York central office men had turned over to them a Russian named Zogalowski, who had been placed in irons while in mid-ocean in response to a wireless sent by the German detective from the St. Louis to the commander of the German steamer.

According to the story told by the Berlin sleuth in court, early last January three men—one of whom was Zogalowski—murdered a rich Jew money lender, his wife, his typewriter and another employee, in the Russian town of Mictlowitz. They secured an enormous sum of money and fled. The Russian authorities employed Dussdorf and he chased Zogalowski to Posca, through Russia, to Hanover, Germany, then to Bremen, where the detective lost the scent. When he picked it up again he found his quarry was on the Zettin, which had sailed for New York on March 4.

Building and Loan Report. Columbus, O., March 17.—O. P. Sperra, inspector of building and loan associations, has completed the twentieth annual report of the state bureau and calls attention to their growth. In the period from 1903 to the end of 1910, he says, the associations increased in assets from $21,442.26 to $170,550,527.91, a gain of $69,500,000, or an average annual gain for seven years of nearly $10,000,000. The gain from 1909 in total assets was about $18,000,000. The number of associations recorded for 1910 was 622.

NEW TAX CODE BILL IS HELD UP

Sent Back to the Committee, Which Introduced Amendment--Langdon Tax Bill is Practically Killed.

JOHN J. FITZGERALD
Congressman to Be New Watch-Dog of Treasury.

REPRESENTATIVE FITZGERALD HIGHLY HONORED

New Yorker to Head House Committee on Appropriations.

Washington, March 17.—Representative John J. Fitzgerald of New York will be chairman of the committee on appropriations in the house. In selecting Mr. Fitzgerald for this important chairmanship, the chairman on the ways and means committee, which is acting as a committee on committees, was obliged to ignore a protest made by William J. Bryan. Mr. Bryan entered an objection to the selection of Mr. Fitzgerald as chairman on appropriations, on the ground that the appointment would be accepted as a recognition of Tammany by the democratic organization of the house. The committee did not agree with Mr. Bryan. It decided to elevate Mr. Fitzgerald to the post, members explaining that his services in the house justified the promotion.

Slayer Of Child Convicted By Jury

Mrs. Melber Must Serve 20 Years in Auburn Penitentiary.

Albany, N. Y., March 17.—Mrs. Edith Melber, who admitted killing her little 5-year-old son George and hiding his body in a swamp, was found guilty of murder in the second degree. The jury was out but a few seconds. Justice Howard passed sentence immediately, making it an indeterminate term of not less than 20 years in Auburn prison.

Attorneys for Mrs. Melber sought to secure her freedom on a plea of insanity. The prosecution claimed that she killed the child in order to be free to marry a man then keeping her company.

Mrs. Melber, in a statement before the trial, declared that she had been so dunned by hunger and exposure that she was hardly aware that she killed the little fellow.

EXCEEDED THEIR AUTHORITY

House Parliamentarians Say Recommendation Is Premotion of Its Ultimate Defeat—Bakers Put Up Fight to Defeat Bill Compelling Sale of Bread by Weight—Senate Defeats Todd's Public Administrator Bill, New Teachers' Pension Bill.

Columbus, O., March 17.—By a reference to the tax committee of the house, the Langdon tax bill was practically killed. The action followed the sustaining of a point of order by Speaker Vining that the committee had exceeded its authority in amending the bill by reducing the Willis corporation tax.

Representative Tidrick of Carroll county raised the point. He said that, besides exceeding its authority, the committee had no right to make any amendments or changes or add any new matter, because the title simply called for a codification and revision of the tax commission laws. Many amendments were made to the bill. Most important of these was the one lowering the corporation tax from three-twentieths of 1 per cent to one-tenth of 1 per cent, thereby cutting $750,000 a year from state revenues.

Speaker Vining said he had determined after many hours' study of the rules to sustain the point of order, even though it must be done regretfully. Tidrick then moved a re-reference to the committee with power to change the title and sectional numbering. Representative Riddle of Logan county offered an amendment to the motion to cut out all but the re-reference. It carried.

Can Not Report Original Bill.

Representative Langdon of Warren county, author of the bill, declared the committee had the right to revise and codify only. He holds that only the original bill can be reported by the committee. Parliamentarians declare the action kills the bill, as the committee can not even report out the original bill, as the recommitment was on the substitute bill.

The house passed the Fellinger bill, providing punishment for both the receiver and giver of a rebate on an insurance policy premium. Offenses are listed as misdemeanors, punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Senator Todd's bill for the appointment of a public administrator of estates was defeated in the senate.

Bakers Register Protest.

Columbus, O., March 17.—Bakers are in Columbus from all parts of Ohio protesting against the passage of the Bertsch bill, which provides, among other things, that bread shall be sold by weight only. Under the bill fruits, (berries excepted), dried and green vegetables shall be sold either by numerical count or by weight; while foodstuffs that shall be sold by weight only are all grains, seeds, nuts, poultry, fish, meats, bread, lard, butter, pine tree products and vegetable oils. Penalty for violations are a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment not to exceed three months or both.

Presents Third Pension Bill.

Columbus, O., March 17.—Senator Deaton of Lucas county introduced a teachers' pension bill in the senate, the third of the kind introduced this session. The bill provides for the creation of a fund by the state to be secured by levying 1 per cent of the salary of teachers and 1 per cent of the money levied for school purposes in the various school districts of the state. Teachers will be entitled to retire at the age of 65 and receive a pension equal to one-half the average salary they have received during the previous 15 years.

Delaware Man Dies in Battle.

Delaware, O., March 17.—Martin Ryan, a former Delawarean, and a brother of Mrs. Levi Smith, was one of the Americans reported killed in the battle between Mexican revolutionists and federal troops at Casas Grandes, Monday, March 5.

Company M Inspection Important Military Event

Full Attendance of Officers and Men, Numbering Forty-nine, Greet Captain Kilburn, of the Regular Army, at Stinson Conservatory Hall Promptly at 8:30 o'clock—"Regular" is Soon in Close Touch With All Present and Rigid Inspection is Turned to Enjoyable Event.

Two Recruits, Enlisted Yesterday Afternoon, Added to Number of Regular Company—Hickman, of the Navy, and McDonald, an Old Veteran, Join With the Boys—"Taken All in All, Company Best I Have Inspected in the Fourth Regiment."

EVERYONE PLEASSED

The regular annual inspection of Company M, Ohio National Guard, took place last night and yesterday afternoon according to program.

Captain Kilburn upon his arrival here on the B. & O. train from Columbus, went immediately to the armory of the company in the Westward block and inspected the papers and property of the company. After having completed this important branch of the work and placing his official approval on the conditions as he found them, he went immediately to his hotel where he remained until time for the inspection of the men, the blankets and the guns which was scheduled for eight o'clock at the Stinson Conservatory hall.

This inspection was to commence at 8:30 o'clock and at exactly 8:29 the officers and men of Co. M were drawn up in line on the floor of the Conservatory ready for the arrival of the regular army officer.

He was on time to the minute, and the work commenced at 8 o'clock was not concluded until after 9:30. It was rigid and thorough in the extreme, but withal pleasant and enjoyable. Captain Kilburn's manner instantly put him on the best of terms with every man present and all unite in saying that it was one of the most pleasant inspections ever held.

There were present at the inspection three officers and forty-six men—the full enrollment. This included two recruits who had enlisted Thursday. These recruits, Fred Hickman and Norman McDonald, made a very favorable impression, as both have had experience, the former for three years in the navy and the latter in the regular army.

Hickman is an expert bugler and the boys say he can "certainly make a bugle sing."

McDonald is a little too old to be eligible, but for his veteran record in the past. This entitles him to preference in the enlistments.

In connection with the inspection of men, an amusing incident occurred between McDonald and Captain Kilburn. In passing along the lines the captain noted McDonald, who was in the rear rank and asked him in the quick, blunt military tone, "How old are you?" McDonald promptly answered that he was 40. Captain Kilburn passed on down the line, but returned presently and turning to McDonald quickly asked him when he had first enlisted, to which McDonald, caught off his guard answered in 1870.

Quick as a flash Captain Kilburn then said, "You must have been about six weeks old then when you first enlisted. McDonald saw then that the cat was out of the bag and confessed to being 69 years old. Captain Kilburn promptly said—that's all right—all I wanted was the truth and the incident was closed with the joke very much on McDonald.

The inspection of the blanket rolls was next in order and every blanket was found properly rolled ready for service, containing everything needful for life in the field.

The blankets were folded and rolled under instructions from the regimental commander, and so faithfully had the boys observed instructions that an inspection of one was practically an inspection of all. They were all alike and from no one blanket roll was a single article missing.

The guns were found to be in fine shape and the seal of approval unqualifiedly placed on the whole outfit—men, guns and blanket rolls.

Captain Kilburn remarked at the close of the inspection that taking everything into consideration the company had passed the best inspection of any company he had inspected in the Fourth regiment. This was considered a very high compliment, coming from such an authority.

The captain made both formal and informal talks with the boys, and was soon having the most timid speaking right out in meeting and telling just what they thought of the National Guard, whether they would enlist again and expressing opinions generally and freely, a thing unprecedented. Some of the boys who did most of the talking last night were noted for their inability to open their mouths at former inspections.

Captain Kilburn certainly made a splendid impression on the whole company. He left last night at 10:45. This evening he goes to Blanchester, Monday to Chillicothe and Tuesday to Circleville to inspect companies at those points.

The splendid attendance last night—100 per cent—helps the company out because on that attendance is based the federal government allowance of $8 per annum for uniforms.

There was absolutely nothing doing with Captain Kilburn when it came to talking war with Mexico.

CHILD FATALLY BURNED NEAR WATERLOO THURSDAY

Foster Miller, the Little Two-year-old Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller Dies Last Night After Four Hours of Pain, Due to Burns Received by Clothing Igniting From Heating Stove Fire.

At the country home of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller near Waterloo Thursday afternoon a terrible tragedy was enacted, a tragedy which has shocked the whole country round about and plunged the immediate household into a frenzy of grief, perhaps the deepest sorrow it has yet known.

The Miller home is located about a mile beyond Waterloo across Deer creek, just over the line in Pickaway county. The family was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their four children, three girls and one boy, a fine little lad 2 years old.

Yesterday afternoon at about 4 o'clock, the time the terrible calamity occurred, Mr. Miller and the three girls were out of the house, the former at work on the farm and the latter visiting among the other children of the neighborhood. Mrs. Miller was at work in the kitchen, preparing the evening meal and the little boy, Foster, was toddling about first into the front room and back into the kitchen enjoying a fine play in the best of health and spirits, full of life and restless energy.

In one of his rounds through the front room, his mother heard him scream and with mother's instinct divining that serious trouble had overtaken the little fellow, dropped everything and rushed into the front room where she found him near the center of the room screaming in agony and literally wrapped from head to foot in flames.

Seizing a rug she at once, with rare presence of mind, smothered and beat the devouring flames until they were extinguished, not, however, until the little dress and underclothing had been burned almost completely off the front of the body.

The frantic mother then summoned aid and returned to look after the suffering child.

With kind hands of neighbors and the skill of the physician, who soon arrived on the scene to help the mother, the clothing was removed and soothing lotions applied. From feet to neck the little boy was practically one solid burn, but strange to say the face was untouched by the flames. Sedatives were administered and the little fellow made as comfortable as possible. He was perfectly conscious and repeatedly called for water to drink, up until eight o'clock, when he sank into a deep

In Social Circles

The vivid green of "Auld Ireland" is having its innings today and society functions are made doubly attractive by the distinctive St. Patrick's day decorations and the quaint suggestions that the beloved old Saint, who is accredited with banishing all evils, as well as snakes, from Ireland, invariably arouses.

Of course everybody who has an Irish ancestor is wearing a shamrock or an Irish flag and most everybody also sports something green in sympathy with the warm-hearted Irish sentiment.

Miss Elizabeth Ballard filled the role of hostess charmingly today at a beautiful luncheon, in which the St. Patrick's day ideas were exquisitely carried out.

The table was a picture of Spring-like beauty, with its centerpiece a mound of real sod with an Irish flag floating from a center flag staff. The place cards were shamrocks and shamrocks covered the damask. A green and white color scheme was effectively introduced in the elaborate courses served.

Seated with the hostess were the members of the Bridge club, Mrs. Horace Ireland, Mrs. Elmer Junk, Mrs. Ellis Daugherty, Misses Levon Cockerill, Myrtle McCoy, Pauline Millikan, Helen Willis, Margaret McClure, Edith Hamm, Helen Gest.

Miss Del Lanum and Mrs. Alice Moorman entertained the "500" club and a number of additional guests most delightfully at the hospitable Lanum home Thursday evening.

Strikingly effective were the decorations of brilliant emerald green and crimson St. Patrick's day was a heralded in numerous Irish flags and shamrocks and the rooms were redolent with the perfume of crimson carnations in graceful clusters.

The trophies in the game were won by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Peddicord.

An elegant luncheon was served. Mrs. Arvilla Rowe Baxter, of Cincinnati, was an out-of-town guest.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. C. Bowen entertained with an informal "Bridge" in honor of Mrs. Bowen's sister, Mrs. Paul Bowen, of Tecumseh, Mich. Three tables were at play.

The "Sour Pickles and Stuffed Olives" club celebrated their first anniversary this afternoon with a St. Patrick's day feast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fitzgerald, "Brookside."

They had a royal good time, the kind of a spicy time expected from "sour pickles" and "stuffed olives". Mrs. Fitzgerald turned over the spacious home to their pleasure and each club member contributed to a feast that was worthy of the day.

The sour pickles are Misses Jean Fitzgerald, Carrie Willis, Mary Alice Culhan, Jeanette Weaver, Margaret McDonald, Jane Paul, Doris McFadden, Bessie Casey and Lora Ellen Tharp, and the stuffed olives, Edward Hopkins, Kenneth Kerr, Paul and Robert Craig, Ervin Bailey, Robert McFadden.

The magic wand of the Early Revolution has touched the garment world, and instantly, broad Incroyable revers and deep collars, the picturesque "raised-waist" and its attendant long, graceful lines have taken form in the new apparel.

Most beautiful exponents of these new modes, fresh from the "Workshop of Worth," are on view here; a superb showing of smart top-coats, dressy Satin, Pongee and Shantung coats, practical tailored suits and the ever-useful separate skirts.

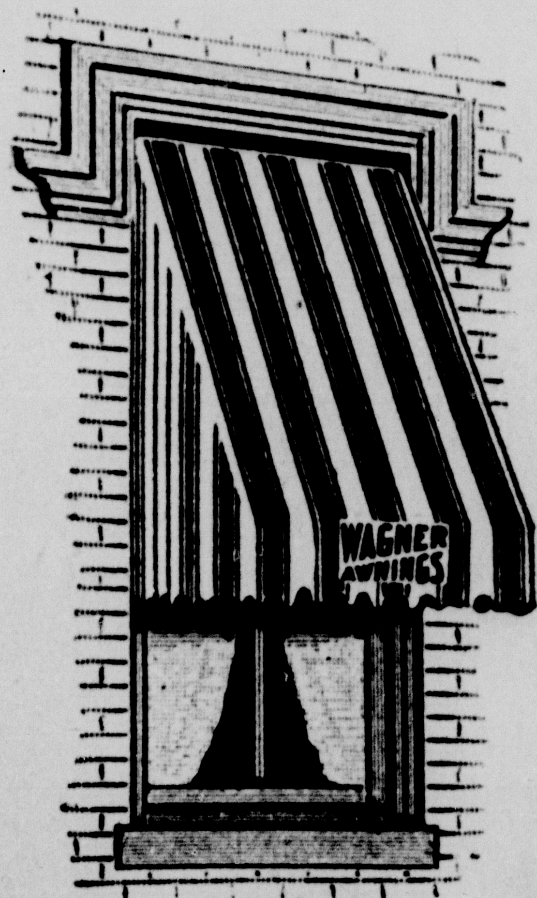

We are showing the skirt which has stirred up a whirlwind of criticism the country over—THE HAREM SKIRT—and in spite of all that has been said against it, there are many thing about it that are most practical.

We want TO HEAR YOUR OPINION. WILL YOU CALL AND SEE IT?

SAINT PATRICK'S DAY.

"Are ye thinkin' today of auld Ireland,
With its mantle of green, o're the sea?
Well, be dadd, if ye are, old fellow,
Ye'r thinkin' the same as me.

Is your Irish heart full of gladness,
Like a gleam of the sun's mellow ray?
If it is, old boy, there are two of us
That are glad this St. Patrick's Day."

TODAY.

Today is St. Patrick's day. No one need hesitate to wear the green today, for, as the inspired Irish bard sang, "St. Patrick was a gentleman and came of dacent people," and we can all afford to celebrate his memory. But he was a great man, too—a man who loved honor, liberty, humanity, justice and God. In fact, the whole world loved good old St. Patrick in return. France, England and Scotland claimed him as a native son, and now the United States can claim him as an adopted child. And he was a good man, too—carried the love of God and of his fellowmen into more hearts than most any other man. His great work was in Ireland. No wonder the Irish love him; but in celebrating his memory, the Irish have no monopoly on today, for this great memory grows on the people as the love of liberty, of justice, of humanity and religion grows in the world. So here's to the memory of St. Patrick, and to all who love him.—Ohio State Journal.

NOW HUSTLE.

Is it a part of that all prevailing law of nature which decrees "a survival of the fittest" that so many successful business men and professional men are chronic grouches. In the business world every day one comes in contact with the grouch—the man who acts like a boer unless there is a prospect of profit very apparent to him and then he is all smiles.

Why is it that the mild mannered, good natured, really and truly kind hearted man gets the hot end of the poker every time he sticks his hand into the world's grab bag?

Simply and solely because of the operation of that law which is intended to and does operate in a hard world with hard people—in a world where every man must take care of himself because no one else will take care of him. It means that every man is set down in the world and not only commanded to hustle but compelled to hustle for everything he gets out of it.

Once well started on his journey he learns that the world is full of men in just exactly his situation and all hustling for the all-mighty, all-elusive dollar. Most men soon learn that, if they step back, out of the kindness of their hearts, to let another man in ahead of them, they have lost an advantage and rarely indeed, do they find another man kind enough, or as the world would express it, "soft enough" to voluntarily give them the lost advantage.

Most men are naturally kindly disposed and it frequently is a hard task for the cold business man to refuse to be a good fellow.

Not only the rules of business but the laws of the world prevent a too frequent exhibition of kindly disposition. The world will soon regard the kind man as easy and deal with him accordingly. The truth about the matter is that most men are so busy with their own noses against the grind stone that they haven't time to look after the other fellow's nose.

Their heart is just as kind as the "easy mark" only they have too much sense to show their weakness.

Man starts in life with but little advise and no experience. He soon learns that he must get all he can honestly and give up as little as he can, in fact only give up an amount which will prove profitable to him. Receive and give according to business principles in order to prosper.

Exceptions to this rule? Yes, lots of them. But when they are sought they will never be found among the masters of finance, the captains of industry or the merchant princes.

They are usually to be found in the humble home with a very little, if anything, left to show for the battle with the world.

Must be expecting scrapping at George's coronation—fighting Lord Kitchener has been put in command of the troops that will participate.

Hot air that can be used for heating purposes costs good coin, but there's a kind more plentiful that costs nothing, except loss of temper, and is one of the slightest use to anybody on earth.

Moreover, br'er Hobson is sleeping better, now that Uncle Sam has soldiers enough bunched to take care of any army Japan can land from air-planes.

Though entirely overlooked by all the war correspondents, it is an absolute fact that neither "Tama Jim" nor Doc Wiley was consulted about the field grub for the soldiers.

POETRY
FOR TODAY

THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE

In the spring the housemaid's fancy
Lightly turns from pot and pan
To the greater necromancy
Of a young unmarried man.
You can hold her through the winter,
And she'll work around and sing,
But it's just as good as certain
She will marry in the spring.

There are daughters in the household

Who would welcome Cupid's shaft,
But as sure as he projects it
The fatality is aft,
You can hold her through the autumn,
When the winds begin to sting,
But it's safe to say a wager
She will marry in the spring.

There are many gallant fellows Running in and out the front,
And a person wouldn't fancy
That the rear was in the hunt.
There are seldom indications
Of a courtship or a ring,
But experience will tell you
She will marry in the spring.

There is probably an answer
That is not so far to find,
I have often thought upon it
When the servant has resigned.
The household daughters, likely,
Are not good for anything,
But the cook can cook, and therefore
She will marry in the spring.

Warning Letters Received.

Lebanon, O., March 17.—As a result of the tobacco situation in the Miami valley, several independent tobacco raisers received letters warning them against selling their crop at the prices now being offered in this territory. The communications did not state what would be the result of such sales, but merely warned the grower that the tobacco market of the Miami valley had decided that the present price was not enough and that they would get more.

Thinks War Talk Foolish.

Delaware, O., March 17.—William J. Bryan, who gave his lecture, "The Signs of the Times," before a large audience in Gray chapel, deems the talk of war between the United States and Mexico entirely out of place. Mr. Bryan expressed himself as surprised at the effort of some papers to find sensational news out of the army moves, and characterized speculation as to ulterior motives on the part of the administration as entirely out of place.

Run Down by Robbers.

Steubenville, O., March 17.—Edward Steinmetz was pursued 19 miles across the country by men eager to kill him, and when at last exhausted, he sought refuge in an abandoned sawmill and pleaded for his life, they demanded $100 and compromised for $50, for which he gave them a check. The men were armed with axes and spikes taken from a lumber camp near Adena.

Report Fruit Uninjured.

Wooster, O., March 17.—Specialists at the Ohio agricultural experiment station do not believe the sudden drop in temperature will have any marked effect upon growing crops or fruits. March so far has been an ideal one for fruit and the buds have not opened enough to be affected unless the cold weather continues for some days.

Begins Seventh Sentence.

Columbus, O., March 17.—John Jones, who misrepresented the age of Grace Strahm of Kenton in order to marry her, arrived at the pen to serve five years for perjury. Jones is 33 years old and has served six previous terms in the pen, varying from one to three years. He also spent time in Mansfield.

May Cheat Electric Chair.

Columbus, O., March 17.—Charles Justice, Green county murderer, confined in the penitentiary annex awaiting execution, has been in very poor health the past few weeks and has become despondent. He rarely leaves his cot to attend daily religious services. A close watch is kept over him.

No Deaths in Strike.

Cincinnati, O., March 17.—Information contained in reliable reports that have reached this city show that there is no truth in the rumors of numerous killings in connection with the strike of the firemen of the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas
Pacific railroad.

It Grows Hair

Here are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall '93 Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course, in none of these cases were the hair roots dead, nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

Rexall '93 Hair Tonic acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed, and will not gum nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall '93 Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair, and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us, and without question or for malty we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Sold only at our store—the Rexall Store, Blackmer & Tanquary, Court street, Washington C. H., Ohio.

Politics And Golf Will Not Mix

Representative White Relates Personal Experience.

New York, March 17.—One of the new congressmen, George White of Marietta, dropped in upon New York on his way home from the national capital, where he had been picking out an office and waiting to hear something rise and drop. The silence proving oppressive, Congressman White came to attend a family reunion.

"From what I have gathered in conversation with men in Columbus and Washington, the special session ought not to last long," said Mr. White. "The opinion seems to be that we ought to reduce a few schedules of the tariff, pass the Canadian reciprocity bill and go home. I don't think the country is in a condition to welcome a general revision just now, but that reform should be devoted to the schedules demanded, such as wool and cotton."

In the course of the conversation Mr. White remarked that he had heard that a man could not be a golfer and a successful politician at the same time. "I used to be very fond of the game," he said, "but four years ago, when I was on the links one day, a ward leader came to me with a horror-stricken expression. 'Say, if you want to get elected, you'll have to give up this,' he said. 'The people simply won't stand for it. You can play baseball if you wish, but don't play golf.' I was defeated in that election, but something else than golf may have been responsible."

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

A tonic in action, quick in results. A special medicine for all kidney and bladder disorders. Mrs. R. Snyder, Springfield, O., says, "For six years I had suffered severely with kidney trouble and had backache together with painful urinary irregularities. I lost sleep and became restless and nervous. A friend advised me to try Foley Kidney Pills which I did. The results were surprising. The pains left my back, my kidney action became regular and normal and without pain. I can sleep all night and all this I attribute to Foley Kidney Pills which I certainly recommend to all for kidney trouble." Blackmer & Tanquary.

St. Charles College Destroyed By Fire

Students of Catholic Institution Near Baltimore Lose All Belongings. Baltimore, March 17.—St. Charles college, the famous Catholic institution at Ellicott City, near Baltimore, caught fire and the flames spread so rapidly before a high northwest wind that all buildings were destroyed.

At the time the fire broke out about 200 students were in the various departments. All are believed to have escaped. Priests and students lost all their belongings. The student body of the institution includes young men from all over the country as well as from Canada, Mexico and foreign countries.

Wet Shy on Pledges.

Columbus, O., March 17.—Members of the house who are working for the passage of a bill to exempt Ohio cities from the operation of the House law have thus far failed of enough pledges to insure the passage of the bill. It will not be introduced unless sufficient pledges to guarantee passage are secured. It is proposed to insert a provision that the law if enacted shall not interfere with the "drainage" of any city during the term the county voted it dry.

Will Pardon Walsh.

Washington, March 17.—It was reported on good authority at the department of justice that, if President Taft acts on the recommendation of Attorney General Wickersham, Banker John Walsh of Chicago will be out of jail about six months hence, while Charles Morse, the ice king, will have to serve two and one-half years more.

It has been decided that the body washed up by the sea at Ostend was that of Cecil Grace, the American aviator, who lost his life in an attempt to fly across the English channel.

Dayton Is Bidder For New Prison

Will Give Site If New Penitentiary Is Ordered by Legislature.

Columbus, O., March 17.—Senator Cetone of Montgomery wants the new penitentiary if there is to be a new one for his county. He said on behalf of his city of Dayton that it would be prepared to offer a site. He cites the fact that the big prisons of other states are away from the capitals, and said his city would have plenty of limestone to be quarried for road purposes.

Plan To Probe Federal Departments

Washington, March 17.—Plans for a long series of investigations of various government departments as a part of a Democratic campaign for economy and retrenchment in national finances were determined upon by the Democratic leaders at the program for the extra session in addition to Canadian reciprocity and a revenue revision of the tariff.

CHARLES BAKER NABBED FOR "HOPPING" TRAINS

For Some Time the B. & O. Has Been Annoyed With a Gang of Young Loafers, Who Overrun the Depot and Platform and Jump On and Off Moving Trains---Move to Break Up the Gang.

Detective Kennedy of the B. & O. railroad made an important arrest in this city late Thursday afternoon when he nabbed Charles Baker, a young man about 21 or 22 years old just as he alighted from an inbound freight train.

Baker is a resident of this city, but the authorities say that he has never overburdened himself with work and has contented himself to a great extent in loafing about the railroad stations and "hopping" trains.

For some time the company has been annoyed by a large gang of young loafers who frequent the depot waiting rooms and station platforms ogling passengers, spitting tobacco juice around promiscuously, using bad language and otherwise making of themselves huge-sized pests and legal nuisances in human form.

The company has determined to set sail in earnest for these loafers and break up the annoying custom. Then, too, a number are in the habit of jumping on and off moving trains a thing strictly forbidden by law.

It was in the action of jumping off a moving train which he is supposed to have "hopped" somewhere in the east yards, that Baker was nabbed.

Taken before Mayor Allen he plead guilty and a fine of $25 and costs was assessed. The Mayor, however suspended $15.00 of the fine on condition that he quit loafing around the railroad depot and yards and hunt a job and go to work.

Dies in Mt. Carmel Hospital

A sad death occurred at the Mt. Carmel hospital early this morning, when John Bannon, son of Thomas Bannon, of Paint street, passed to his last long sleep.

Mr. Bannon has been suffering for several months with obstruction of the stomach and his condition became so alarming that he was taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus on Wednesday of this week.

It was the intention to operate, but his condition was found to be too serious and nothing could be done. His father accompanied him to the hospital and was with him when he died.

Mr. Bannon was a young man, of about thirty, genial and popular, and leaves many friends to deplore his untimely demise. Particularly sad is his leaving a young wife and little girl, who, with the bereaved father, have the sympathy of the community.

Mr. Bannon was connected with the Hays Photograph gallery some time ago and afterwards operated a gallery of his own. He was a member of Co. M., O. N. G., until about three years ago.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made. Undertaker McCoy went to Columbus this morning and brings the remains down this afternoon at 4:26.

CALLED TO BAINBRIDGE.

Mr. E. M. Moore, the W. Court street grocer, was called to Bainbridge this week by his father, W. S. Moore, who is suffering greatly from an accident of last week.

Mr. W. S. Moore owns and operates a canning factory in the summer season and a saw mill in the winter. Last week he was engaged in sawing lumber for the boxes to be used in his canning factory, when his left hand got caught in the machinery.

One finger was cut off and two others badly mashed.

The suffering and the nerve shock together have caused a prostrated condition, which is of the utmost anxiety to his family.

Arrives From Colorado Springs

The remains of Miss Maude Coffman arrived from Colorado Springs, Colo., this morning on the 10:35 B.
& O. train. They were accompanied from Colorado by the young girl's mother, Mrs. H. E. Coffman, and two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Shoults, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss Ethel Coffman, who were with their sister in her last illness.

Mr. W. A. Shoults met them in Chicago and Mr. Fred Coffman went to Cincinnati last night and met the train coming in from the west.

The other brother, Mr. Albert Coffman and wife and sister, Mrs. Willard Hoppes and husband, with a number of friends, were in waiting at the B. & O. station.

The remains were taken at once to the Coffman home on the Greenfield pike.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at 10:30 at the family residence and the interment will be in the Washington cemetery.

Law Suit Over One Big Mule

The trial between Will Spangler vs. Hays & McGrew, over the mule that got out of the latter's barn some weeks ago, and was injured in such a way as to cause its death, was tried Tuesday before Squire Creamer, and six jurymen. H. H. Sanderson represented Hays and McGrew and W. B.
Rogers and F. A. Chahin represented
Mr. Spangler.

The trial occupied the entire day, and a number of witnesses examined on both sides. Mr. Spangler asked judgment in the sum of $200 for the loss of the mule, the death of which he claimed was caused by carelessness on the part of Hays and McGrew.
The jury returned a compromise verdict of $75. It is rumored that the case will be carried to the Common Pleas court but by whom we are unable to say.—Jeffersonville

Handsomely Remembered

There is much regret in the Court House and among the members of the bar over the fact that Mrs. Nellie Smith McLean has tendered her resignation as deputy clerk of courts, to take effect the first of April.

For the past fourteen years Mrs.
McLean has filled this position with unusual executive ability and to the entire satisfaction of the county officials and members of the bar. An exceptionally fine business woman, and thoroughly interested in her work, it is realized that to replace Mrs. McLean will be a difficult matter.

In token of their appreciation the members of the bar, the sheriff's office and court bailiff presented Mrs.
McLean with a very handsome cut glass water set, pitcher and glasses, this afternoon.

Mr. J. A. Worrell, the jeweler of whom they were purchased, sent the set over to the Smith home on Oakland avenue, where Mrs. McLean received it.

Mrs. McLean's resignation was caused by Mr. and Mrs. McLean's contemplated removal to their farm in Marion township, this side of New Holland.

WASHING FURNITURE.

Easy to Restore Tarnished Pieces to Original Freshness.

"Very few people know that furniture ought to be washed," said a salesman in the furniture section of a large department store. "Yet," he continued,
"it is the best thing one can do to keep furniture looking as well as it should.
One should take a bucket of tepid rainwater and make a suds with a good pure soap. Then with a soft piece of cheesecloth all the woodwork should be washed. It is astonishing how much dirt will come off. A second piece of cheesecloth should be wrung dry out of hot water. On this should be poured a tablespoon of first class furniture polish. The heat will spread the polish through the cloth. Next the furniture should be gone over with the second cloth. There will be no need of putting on more polish, for that much will do all one needs. Too many persons make the mistake of using too much polish and leaving it thick on the furniture, where it looks dainty and where it gathers more dirt."

There is furniture in homes today that is cast off because of its appearance when it might be brought back to its original freshness by this simple process of washing. Many persons do not know that a fine bit of mahogany is improved by careful washing, and hundreds of pianos have never been more than dusted in years. A square of cheesecloth for the washing and another for the polishing will do the work, and the result will well repay the effort.—Indianapolis News.

HOT DRINKS.

If Taken Above 130 Degrees They Injure the Stomach.

Many people without realizing it are in the habit of drinking tea at much too high a temperature, Sir Henry Thompson points out in his book on "Diet in Relation to Age and Activity."

Few persons are aware that they habitually swallow hot liquids, tea especially, at a temperature which if applied to the hands or feet would inflict painful scalds. Most tea drinkers take it about 140 to 145 degrees F., which the mouth bears very well if slowly sipped, while the cup itself is too hot to be held by any hand.

But the habit of swallowing such tea is injurious to the stomach, and it ought not to be taken above 130 degrees or so. Again, water at 120 degrees, which feels a little more than lukewarm in the mouth, causes severe pain if the hand is dipped in it and cannot be endured.

He has, however, some good words to say for the early morning tea.

"This morning tea in any case should be taken at least an hour and a half before the first meal of the day. For many years I have been accustomed to write for an hour every morning in bed after tea, as I am doing at this moment, and at no time do I find the brain clearer for work, while the appetite for solid food is excellent when the hour for breakfast arrives."

Trudging For the Wash.

The Portuguese country people as a usual thing have great physical endurance, doubtless as a result of the "survival of the fittest" for many generations. The laundry workers are an example of this. People come in from long distances to get soiled clothes of city customers. The clothes will be placed in big tubs on the family donkey, and the peasants will start back late in the afternoon. Some of them will travel all night, and it will be sunup before they reach their homes, many miles from Lisbon or Oporto. A day or two later they are trudging back to deliver the clothes, now spotlessly clean, and to get another lot from the same patron. Many a countryman and his wife take a jaunt of fifteen miles or more, which makes one think that there might be many who could rival the feats of Weston and O'Leary as walkers if they tried.—Christian Herald.

House-Renting and House-Selling Are Want Ad Tasks

They are such "usual tasks" for the want ads that it would be hard to find a rented house whose tenant did not find it through

AFTER THE MARRIAGE

The maid of honor settled herself in the carriage with a great flutter of lace and chiffon and gave a long sigh. "Wasn't Cora just the loveliest bride you ever saw?" she demanded breathlessly of the tall young man who climbed in after her.

"She was certainly a winner," admitted the young man. "It made me kind of blue, though, wishing for Tom's wedding, I tell you! He's the best ever and I hate to lose him!"

"Lose him!" cried the maid of honor. "I think it is perfectly hateful for a man's friends to act as if he had been snatched from them eternally by a cruel fate, just because he marries a nice girl and settles down. It's—"

"Oh, I don't mean it that way," protested the tall young man. "I'm not down on matrimony. I think I was blue because it wasn't my wedding. It—"

"Aren't you frightfully tired?" broke in the maid of honor hurriedly. "I am—standing up at that reception for three hours straight! I can't imagine why Aunt Mattie went home without me!"

"I hope, said the young man, stiffly, "you don't think I forced myself on you! Cora's mother asked me to take you safely home."

"Oh," said the bridesmaid, with equal haughtiness. "I knew of course it was something like that! I knew you never would condemn yourself to an hour's ride with me unless you simply couldn't get out of it. I'm very sorry you should be bored!"

"Now, Genevieve," said the young man, "don't be so foolish! You know perfectly well I'm not bored—"

"I suppose," said the maid of honor, icily, "that was the real trouble—my constitutional foolishness! That was why you discovered it was all a mistake."

"It!" cried the usher. "It it wasn't you who broke off our engagement fair and square I'd like to have some one point out to me what really happened."

"I thought you wanted it broken off!" said the maid of honor. "I'm glad it wasn't announced and nobody knew it. I'd hate to go to put you to any trouble or annoyance. As it is, nobody is the wiser. I don't suppose Cora's mother realized she was picking out the one girl in all the world you disliked most for to escort home. Isn't it funny?"

"Perfectly killing," said the young man. "It makes me feel about as much like laughing as a funeral would. It's a shame, too, when the best man obviously was yearning for my chance!"

"Why didn't you give it to him, then?" inquired the maid of honor, smoothly.

"Great guns!" breathed the usher. "You don't really care anything about Tad Kirby, do you? He hasn't enough brains to put in a peanut shell for all his money. He—"

"Your temper certainly hasn't improved any," broke in the maid of honor. "You haven't a particle of right to object to Tad's paying me attentions if I choose to let him."

"I'm quite well aware of that!" said the young man, stormily.

"Well," said the maid of honor, "it doesn't make any difference to you, so it can't worry you much."

"That's all you know about it," said the usher. "Why—if things hadn't gone to smash we—you and I—would be having our wedding just about now!"

"Think of it!" cried the maid of honor, interestingly. "Think what you've escaped and thank fate. Why, all your best friends might be sighing over you, as you just sighed over Tom, and mourning because they had lost you! As it is, you are safe and rescued and entirely free!"

"I'm glad you can be so philosophical," said the young man. "It shows you really didn't care much if you can consider the affair so lightly. Not that I expected your heart would be broken, but I thought possibly you might have a little tender feeling for what is past—and for what might have been."

There was a little silence as they rolled along. Then the maid of honor spoke casually.

"Neither Tom nor Cora seemed a bit scared at the wedding," she said. "I never saw people head as they did. They really seemed happy!"

When the young man spoke his voice was gruff. "Not half," he said. "As happy as you and I would have been if things hadn't gone wrong! Oh, Genevieve—I can't stand it any longer. Isn't there a chance for us to go back to the beginning and start all over again?"

The maid of honor was crying into her ridiculous handkerchief. "I thought," she gasped, "I'd just died all evening. I was so miserable. Do you really care?"

"Thank heaven Cora's mother happened to send me home with you," murmured the young man, somewhat indistinctly.

For the first time the maid of honor laughed, a choked, hysterical little laugh. "She—she didn't happen to," she confessed. "I asked her to!"

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWS A COLD

But never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar, which checks the cough and expels the cold. M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo., says, "I've tried all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and cough and was threatened with pneumonia. One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar completely cured me." No opiates just a reliable household medicine. Blackmer & Tanquary.

DISCONTENT OFTEN AMBITION'S SPUR

"OUR discontent is from comparison. Were better things unseen; each man would like his own."

So said a wise man, and the truth in his lines is not to be gainsaid. We are discontented because we compare our lot with that of others who have been more fortunate, and the result is that we begin to believe that the world has used us badly, and we become discontented with our lot.

But there is another point of view. Contentment often kills ambition for how can we aspire for the stars and still be content to stay down on earth?

Discontent directed into the right channel is good for us all, for it prod us on and gets us out of the rut into which we may have strayed.

Often we hear the cry from the business girl, "But she has so much more than I have. I don't think it's fair." This is the discontent that makes life a burden.

But when we are dissatisfied with our daily life, when we compare it to the life of another who has been more successful in business and think that we, too, might have just as successful a career, then is discontent a boon.

The girl in the office whose work has seemed to bear no fruits of success compares her lot to that of an associate who, with no better abilities, has gone up and ascended higher and higher the ladder which leads to the fulfillment of her ambitions.

That ambition may be big wages. It may be popularity; if she has taken up a profession, it may be fame, and much publicity, but whatever it is, she has gone on and up and left the little office girl just where she began and at pretty much the same pay.

Here it is that a little discontent is needed—a little comparison between her lot and that of the girl with whom she began her struggle in the outside world.

Contentment is beautiful and satisfying in those who have passed the prime of life and who have realized their ambition. But it is a blighting frost to the young girl who strives to make her way in the world.

If we hitch our wagon to a star it is unlikely that we will ever realize our ambition, but if we hitch our wagon to a star and are then content to sit down and watch it and do nothing towards guiding it toward success, I am very much afraid the harness would soon decay and the wagon come tumbling down to earth.

But that wouldn't affect the star in any way. It is always up there waiting for use to come and fasten our hopes and ambitions high.

The greatest artists, the most famous poets and authors were never wholly satisfied with their productions. Discontent was the good which lashed them ever on to something better.

So, too, in the lives of the rest of us, the office girl, the saleswoman, the clerk, may all aspire to better things; but it is the prickings of discontent which helps them on to make greater efforts, that they may climb higher and higher on the ladder that leads to success.

HEALTHY LIVING

Copper Miners Immune to Typhoid and Sulf Miners to Colds. Breweries and tanneries and printing ink factories confer exemption from tuberculosis, and employees in turpentine factories never have rheumatism, says Harper's Weekly. Copper mining excludes the possibility of typhoid among the workers.

Shepherds enjoy remarkable health. The odd color of sheep appears to exercise some influence tending to the prevention of disease. Sheep are especially good for whooping cough, so that in a sheep country when a child is taken down with that malady it is the custom for the mother to put it among the sheep to play. The next day, it is said, the child will be well.

Men and women working in lavender, whether gathering or distilling it, are said never to suffer from neuralgia or nervous headache. Lavender, moreover, is as good as a sea voyage for giving tone to the system. Persons suffering from nervous breakdown frequently give their services gratis to lavender plants in order that they may build up their vitality.

Salt miners can wear summer clothes in blizzard weather without fear of catching cold, for colds are unknown among these workers.

WITCHCRAFT IN INDIA.

Belief So Strong That Human Sacrifice Is Still Practiced. The belief in witchcraft, a still fast rooted in parts of India, and the unfortunate persons suspected of the black art are not uncommonly done to death.

In Bengal last year several cases of the kind came before the courts. In the South Parganas a woman was murdered by her mother and brother, who believed her to be a witch.

In Palamau a man was killed, as the villagers held that he was a wizard. In another case two women were murdered on the bare suspicion that they had caused the death of three children by cholera. Human sacrifice also is still practiced along the uncivilized tribes of Bengal.

In Angul some Khonds sacrificed a girl as a propitiatory offering against cholera, and in Palamau a boy was enticed into the jungle and killed as a sacrifice. There can be little doubt that any relaxation of vigilance would result in a serious increase of witch killing and human sacrifices.

Making It Worse.

Harold—Who was that homely looking chap I saw you with yesterday?

Percy—Look out now, Harold, that was my twin brother.

Harold—Pardon me, old chap, I ought to have known.

"Have you ever noticed how a crab does his walkin' backwards most av th' time? Well, according to th' laws av nature, I'll only be a matter av time till they'll be getting their heads on th' other ind to be seen! where they're goin'!" This makes evolution. Nature is a wonderful thing when ye come to study it."

"Mother," asked little Ethel, "now that you're in mourning for Cousin Adelaide, will you wear black night-dresses, too?"

"What an absurd question, child!" "Oh, I only thought you might be as sorry at night as you were during the day," ventured Ethel.

WHAT IS TRUE LOVE

M. R. A. G. HOWE asked this paper to define for him: "What is true love?"

And a poetic contributor, Mr. A. L. Wright of Hartford, Conn., answers in these lines:

"What is true love? Methinks no one can tell; For human speech, however wise and strong,

Appears inadequate, and ages long Seem impotent to bring the magic spell

Within the range of words. Where Love's sweet bell Hath wrought its miracles; when Doubt and Wrong

Are fled and mortals learn the seraph's song— Lo, there perchance some one may even dispel

The wondrous mystery! Go ask fair Ruth, The Moabitess; Rebekah at the well; Or Jacob when his firmament was starred

With orbs of light and visions of the Truth! What is true love where we poor mortals dwell? Alas! ask Heloise and Abelard!"

And what would these immortal lovers say? Ask Rebekah. She would say that true love is the love that makes a woman get up and leave father and mother, and kindred and home, and follow a man to the end of the earth; that makes his country, henceforth her country; his people her people, and his gods her gods.

The Wonderful Love of Ruth. Such a love is a miracle, past all explaining, and its wonder is that it is repeated, over and over again, down to this very day, and before our very eyes. When you meet little Mrs. Smith in New York at a tea party and she tells you that she is a San Francisco girl and came east to live when she married, lower your eyes and tread softly, for the ground whereon you stand is holy ground, sanctified by a great love.

She loves as did Rebekah, and has sacrificed as much, and as freely and as gladly. For the sake of a man she has journeyed into a far country. She has left the father who cherished her, the mother who bore her on his breast, the sisters and brothers who were a part of her very existence. She has given up home and friends, and all the dear familiar associations of a lifetime, just because a hand some stranger has come whistling across her pathway and whistled the heart out of her bosom.

It is love that makes the world go round, and it is love of the truest that makes a woman willing to forsake all that she has known and loved before, and, without a backward regret, follow a man wherever his fortunes lead him.

If she were asked what is true love what would Ruth say? Ruth would say that true love is service, and patience, and she might incidentally add, as a tip to her sex, that the woman who simply inundates a man with her affection is pretty sure to get him at the last. He has to marry her to save his life.

Soft Carpet for a Man's Feet. Ruth's particular brand of love is the love that makes itself a soft carpet for a man's feet, and a pillow for his head, that is a cloak that shelters him from the cold in winter, and a fan that cools and soothes him in summer.

It isn't particularly romantic, or heroic love, and it doesn't sweep a man off his feet in any sudden gust of passion; but it is comfortable, and wholesome, and, before a man knows it, it has become necessary to him. And then he marries Ruth, and never regrets it, and she—poor humble soul—lives ever after in the seventh heaven of matrimonial bliss.

There are many women who love like Ruth. You see them—spinners feigning interest in some subject that bores them to death to please some man; happy when he notices them, unresentful when he neglects them, praying, hoping for a dilly-dallying lover to come to the point, and eagerly anxious to pick up his handkerchief when he drops it; wives waiting with heart-breaking patience for roaming husbands to come back to them, when they grow old and worn out with the world. Oh, there are so many, many Ruths who give so much and ask so little; and it is such a comfort to reflect that, in the end, persistent love seldom fails of its reward.

And what is true love? If you should ask Heloise what would she say? She would say that true love is the love that gives itself without counting the cost; that cries, "All for love and the world well lost!" It is the grand passion that sweeps all before it in some tremendous cyclonic emotion—and that leaves, oftener than not, desolation and death in its wake. Fill Suicides' Graves.

There are many women who love as Heloise loved, and her fate is the common fate of all; for it is the sad destiny of those who love not wisely, but too well, to be betrayed, deserted, scorned. You see them in the sad sisterhood of the street. You hear of them filling suicides' graves, or dragging out in sorrow and tears the long links of a blighted life. They have had their brief hour of bliss when they drank the cup of love to the dregs—but its lees were bitter!

God help all women who love as did Heloise!

Our theory is that any one who is misled by a picture show is too easily led to make much of a stand on anything.

No More Constipation WHEE!

It's Me for Olive Tablets!

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel but olive oil—a healing, soothing laxative itself. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated tablets.

They cause the bowels and liver to act normal. They never force them to unnatural action.

It is easy to compel bowel and liver activity for a time with calomel and nasty, sickening, gripping castor oil, but the after effects are dangerous, and the real cause of the trouble is often not even touched.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not regard them as "medicine" at all. They never gripe.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime. They're perfectly harmless.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right with them. All druggists sell Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets in convenient pocket packages.

15 tablets for 10c, 45 tablets for 25c.
